

ROADHOUSE

Dear all,

Sadly we announce that The Roadhouse will not open again. Given the current situation and so much uncertainty around late night London we have decided that it would not be viable to open during this period and therefore the very difficult decision has been taken to not re-open.

It is the end of an era. An incredible amount of people have enjoyed being part of the Roadhouse journey, some great times and some great stories will be remembered by all those who have been involved along the way. It has been a huge success, an institution and part of the London late night scene for many years.

We want to thank all those people who have supported Roadhouse over the years, and especially the Roadhouse family; DJ's, bands, technicians, entertainers, team members past and present who have given so much and worked so hard to make Roadhouse the unique and special place that it will be remembered for.

We are very grateful to all of you, you have all played your part – a huge thank you to you all.

The Roadhouse team
